

FIS ROLLER SKI ASIAN CUP

HOW WAS IT IN THE FIRST SEASON?

FIS ROLLER SKI ASIAN CUP

Growth of Skiing in Asia: Alongside a rising interest in winter sports, Asian countries are hindered by a specific lack of snow. Roller skis have become the perfect solution for preparing for winter competitions.

Asian Associations' Initiative: The idea for a regional roller skiing series came from Asian countries themselves, who saw an opportunity to not only prepare athletes but also to boost the sport's popularity.

Successful Events before: The success of international events in places like Thailand, Korea and other countries and FIS Roller Ski World Cup stages in Kazakhstan, which Asian athletes already attended, proved the region is ready to host high-level competitions.

Official Approval and the First Season

Rule Development: In 2024, work began on the competition rules, which were later approved by representatives of the Asian ski associations.

FIS Recognition: In the spring of 2025, at an FIS meeting in Portugal, the new series was officially approved, giving it official international status.

Launch in 2025: The inaugural FIS Roller Ski Asian Cup season kicked off in 2025, marking the first-ever regional series of its kind.

FIS ROL AC – I STAGE. THAILAND, JULY 2025

VIDEO HIGHLIGHTS

THA

I STAGE: KAENG KRACHAN

The Kaeng Krachan Circuit is a motor racing track located in Thailand, in the Phetchaburi Province, near the Kaeng Krachan National Park.

The track's terrain, with its climbs and descents and 12-meter width, is ideal for roller skiing.

The presence of a well-developed racing infrastructure (including pit stops as "team rooms") ensured a high level of organization and safety for all participants.
